“ Heartfelt sympathy to the friends and family of Mickey. He sure enjoyed a good conversation. So much so that he would keep telemarketers on the line for a half hour - just to pick their brains - then decline the sales offer. Mickey indeed had a good sense of humor. May he rest in peace.

“ Please accept my deepest sympathy and condolences. I knew Mickey for about the last 10 years. He was computer savvy and was a big help to me. Mickey also knew his way on public transportation. We went into NYC together by train. It was a lot of fun. Mickey was smart when it came to saving money. He knew all the ins and outs and gave me lots of helpful advice. He always knew the latest "Deals" on cell phone plans, Internet and cable TV service. It was Mickey who convinced me to cut the cord from cable TV. He had me purchase a Firestick. I have saved over 2 years of paying for cable service. He will be missed. I have so many happy memories of him. I hope you find comfort that he gave of his time and expertise to his friends to help out. He had a unique sense of humor. Mickey was extremely intelligent and loved to talk and express his opinions.
