“ We moved two houses down from Phyllis about 14 years ago. Our kids grew up with her walking back and forth along the block several times a day, often in her late husband's Cats jacket and a hair kerchief. She would stop and chat, let my daughter admire her costume jewelry. Sometimes the kids walked with her, hands clasped behind their backs like her. Phyllis would remember them on holidays with little gifts of chocolate or something special. She attended our Christmas party for many years, bringing with her a tin of mixed nuts. We always enjoyed having her as our neighbor and will miss her.
